A Closer Look At The Schedule

⇨ Arkansas opens the season with a tournament at Oklahoma - the first time the Lady Razorbacks have played a tournament during the regular season in Norman. Arkansas faces Idaho, North Carolina and host Oklahoma, meeting the Vandals for the first time in program history. Arkansas is 0-1 against North Carolina, falling to the Tar Heels in 2003. The Lady'Backs are 2-0 against the Sooners with the most recent meeting coming in 2002.

⇨ Arkansas hosts a tournament the second weekend of the season. It marks the 12th time in 13 seasons the Lady'Backs have hosted a regular-season tournament. The break came in 2003.

⇨ The Lady'Backs host Sacramento State, Southeast Missouri State and Stephen F. Austin in the home tournament. Arkansas is 0-1 against Sac State (1994), 1-1 against SEMO and 3-0 against SFA.

⇨ Arkansas next travels to Kansas for tournament action facing BYU and host Kansas in a pair of afternoon matches.

⇨ The Southeastern Conference schedule changed this year and teams will play a double-round robin. Each SEC team plays a home-and-home with the other 10 conference schools, so Arkansas travels to each of the other 10 schools this year and all travel to Fayetteville. The change brings the number of conference matches to 20, up from 16 last year.

⇨ Arkansas faces nine NCAA Tournament teams this year. The schedule is highlighted by Tennessee who reached the semifinals before being eliminated by eventual national champion Washington. Florida advanced to the elite eight and the perennial powerhouse Gators are loaded for the 2005 season. North Carolina, Sacramento State, Kansas, BYU, Kentucky, LSU and Alabama all reached the NCAA Tournament but fell in the first round.

⇨ Arkansas plays in 13 home matches this year and hosts an additional three matches during the Arkansas Invitational.

Barnhill Arena - Home of Arkansas Volleyball

Is it the fans? Is it the facility? Is it the band and cheerleaders?

It's all of those elements that make Barnhill Arena, the home of the Lady Razorbacks, one of the toughest volleyball venues in the country.

Renovated several times, Barnhill Arena officially closed its doors as one of the most feared basketball facilities in the country March 3, 1993. It was reconfigured into the largest volleyball-only arena in time for the inaugural season in 1994.

The Barn underwent a second significant face lift prior to the 2002 season to welcome gymnastics.

Barnhill Arena was authorized in 1953 as the University's new multipurpose arena. Named for athletic director John Barnhill, the Fieldhouse, as it was originally known, underwent a drastic renovation in 1976-78. The renovation created the seating arrangement that turned the facility into a basketball-only configuration.

March 3, 1993, closed Barnhill's career as a basketball facility with a gala party, complete with a coast-to-coast broadcast of the Arkansas-LSU men's game on ESPN and closing ceremonies carried live statewide.

As the home of Lady'Back volleyball, Barnhill underwent renovation of its playing surface to convert the then 19-year-old hardwood floor to a volleyball configuration. It was unveiled to the public during Arkansas' summer camps, including the first-ever volleyball camp at the Fayetteville campus in 1994. In addition to the on-the-court renovation, the Lady Razorback volleyball program was provided with a state-of-the-art locker room. The locker room features a lounge area, team room with a large-screen television and VCR for viewing film and a changing room with lockers and showers.

Barnhill again underwent changes in the summer of 2002. The volleyball-only facility welcomed the addition of gymnastics for the 2003 season and the facility was given a face-lift to remain one of the best in the country. Changes included new paint on the court, expanding the borders to 10 feet, and refinishing and lightening the surrounding wood surfaces.

New lights, including specialized "show lights" with shutters that allow for instant "on-off" capabilities, and new seating were some of the other changes.

Barnhill Arena also serves as office space for the Lady Razorbacks. Several coaches' offices, most of the teams' locker rooms and the training and equipment rooms are located here.

Barnhill Arena - Home of Arkansas Volleyball

When first-ever head coach Chris Poole agreed to coach volleyball at the University of Arkansas, he had a lot of work ahead of him.

There were no assistants, no players, no equipment and no locker room.

The 1993 and 1994 seasons proved to be busy ones for Poole with renovations to Barnhill Arena and the construction of the first locker room.

Since that time, the Lady Razorback locker room has been updated featuring an entry hallway with all-conference and all-district honors and a wall dedicated to the Lady'Back all-Americans.

In addition, a year-by-year time line featuring a key photograph from each season lines the team room. A hardwood court replica is home to the video equipment and is where the Lady'Backs meet for their "chalk talk."

Also at home in Barnhill Arena is the first-ever museum dedicated solely to female athletes at the collegiate level.

The Lady Razorback Museum features highlights from all 11 of Arkansas' teams with a special section for the volleyball team. This area houses Arkansas' 11 Southeastern Conference Western Division trophies as well as the SEC Tournament trophy.

Arkansas' Time Is Now

As the 2006 season approaches and a new senior class steps into the limelight, we find that their goals are really no different than the countless classes that came before them. Get to the next level.

The difference this year at Arkansas is that the senior class has done something about that goal. They have re-dedicated themselves to an off-season training program in the hope of leading this year's edition of the Arkansas volleyball team one step further.

Arkansas put a solid season in the books last year with the program's ninth 20-win season in 12 years of volleyball. The team won a share of the Southeastern Conference Western Division title for the 11th time and earned the program's eighth selection to the NCAA Tournament - the 10th post-season trip in program history.

In addition, individual honors were numerous highlighted by another solid blocking effort as Arkansas finished first in the SEC and 12th in the nation with 3.28 blocks per game. Last year's rising junior Amy Allison also led the SEC and was second in the country as an individual in blocking with 1.83 bpg and returns this year as a senior with bigger goals in mind.

"My individual goals are to lead the nation in blocks, to have a hitting percentage better than .300 and to be a good leader on the team," said Allison. "We want to be more than a mediocre team. We're ready to prove that we are just as good as the top teams in the country."

This year's senior class also includes a pair of outside hitters in Kele Brewer and Denitza Koleva. Their storied careers were successful from the first moment the duo set foot on campus. Koleva earned SEC Freshman of the Year honors and both have earned multiple individual honors.

The senior class has amassed a 65-35 record and a 36-12 SEC mark winning 75 percent of their league matches. They have helped Arkansas to the three NCAA Tournament appearances reaching the second round twice and captured three SEC Western Division titles, reaching the finals of the SEC Tournament in 2003.

Despite all of the success, this year's team wants even more and the corps of senior leadership combined with a hungry underclassmen base is bound to help Arkansas reach this year's goals.

I am excited about this season. We have depth in every position and a mixture of experience and athletic youth. – Chris Poole.

Caira Daugherty

SETTERS

Arkansas is most inexperienced at the setter position. The Lady Razorbacks have utilized a 6-2 offense with two setters rotating in the lineup in recent seasons but the graduation of senior Iva Docekalova and retirement of junior Nicole Martin have depleted the Lady'Back setters.

Sophomore Caira Daugherty returns for her second season having seen action in 100 of Arkansas' 127 games last year. But the second-year player was used as a defensive specialist in 2005 and only recorded 15 assists. She had a pair of kills, eight service aces and 124 digs to go along with her assists.

The Springfield, Mo., native was recruited as a setter and saw a lot of action this spring but Daugherty may face a trial by fire when the season opens in August.

"The biggest question mark for our team this fall is the setting position," said Arkansas head coach Chris Poole. "We have always been very fortunate to have returning setters or experienced setters joining our team since Tina Rico tackled the job as a true freshman in our first season as a program. Iva (Docekalova) graduated in this spring and Nicole (Martin) has decided to take an early retirement from college volleyball. This has left us a hole that must be filled by Caira, and a pair of freshmen in Lindsay (Scanlan) and Ivana (Suput). All of these young ladies had successful careers as setters in high school and club ball, but none have college experience leading the team."

The Lady'Backs also welcome the addition of freshmen Lindsay Scanlan from Rockwall, Texas, and late addition Ivana Suput from Zitiste, Serbia.

Scanlan, 6-0 setter/outside hitter, played both positions for her high school team and the Dallas Force club team. Her experience will add depth to the setter position. Suput joined the roster in late July but her international playing experience is sure to be a plus for Arkansas.

"Ivana has played club ball for Zitiste Club since 10 years old," said Poole. "She is fast, aggressive and very athletic. She has very good passing, defensive, and serving skills. Ivana has the experience to add depth in our setting and libero position. We felt it was important to add more depth in our setting position and, while that position is going to be inexperienced, Ivana gives us another option to consider. We also felt it was a win/win situation with her libero experience because both Ashley and Kelli will be juniors this season."

OUTSIDE HITTERS

While the setters are a bit thin, Arkansas may be most deep at the hitter position. This year's offensive threat comes from seniors Brewer and Koleva along with junior Jessica Dorrell and sophomores Christina Lawrence and Kristin Seaton.

Denitza Koleva

"Easily our most experienced group and the success of our team will rely heavily on our outsides hitters, both on the left and right side," said Poole. "Denny, Kele, Jessica, Christina are all returning starters from last season and all four can play both the left and right side. This will give us a lot of options for our serve receive and line-ups."

Forty percent of last year's kills were attributed to Koleva and Brewer and they ranked first and second, respectively on the team. Koleva recorded the top five single match kill totals last year highlighted by a career-best 27 kills against Kansas State in a five-game thriller in Barnhill Arena early in the year. She also had plus-20 kill matches against South Carolina (24 kills) and Alabama (23 kills) last year.

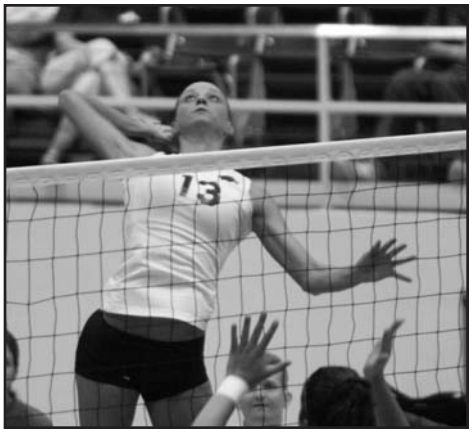

Brewer's kill totals were down a bit from her previous two seasons as the Castroville, Texas, native recorded 317 kills compared to 356 her freshman year and 339 as a sophomore, but her service aces, dig totals and blocking numbers were all career-bests last year.

Koleva and Brewer also became members of the 1,000-kill club at Arkansas last year with Koleva ranking ninth all-time with 1139 kills and Brewer checking in at number 11 with 1012 career kills.

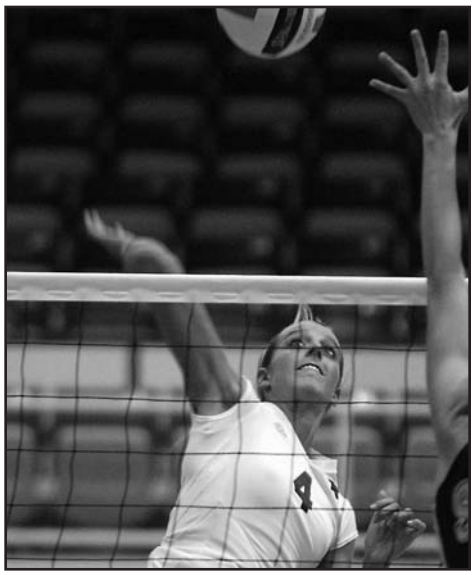

"Denny and Kele have been three year starters for us going into their senior season," said Poole. "They have been part of great success and their leadership will be counted on heavily, both on and off the court. We expect both of them to fight for a full rotation position and hope that this summer has paid off with continued work on their overall ball control."

Dorrell also continues to come on strong for Arkansas. Although the Aledo, Texas, native is not usually the primary focus of opponent defenses, Dorrell quietly puts up big numbers for the Lady Razorbacks. She improved her kill totals from her freshman campaign getting 271 last year to average 2.17 kills per game. Also up were her blocking numbers creeping over the one block per game milestone to 1.03 bpg last year.

"Jessica is a two time starter that is returning as a junior and we expect her to have another great season," Poole added. "Jess led us in hitting percentage her freshman year and the first half of her sophomore season when an injury slowed her for the remainder of the season. She should have her jump back up from the spring and summer and we look for her to again be playing high above the net. Jessica has also improved her serve and backcourt defense to the point that she will also push for extra playing time full rotation."

Kele Brewer

Lawrence checks back into the Arkansas lineup from Sullivan, Mo. The multi-sport athlete redshirted her first season at Arkansas to play basketball but returned to the volleyball court full-time last year. Her inaugural season got out to a fast start as she earned all-tournament team honors and a pair of SEC Freshman of the Week awards.

"Christina was the surprise of last season," said Poole. "Although she came to Arkansas with great athleticism, she had never played club ball and had a lot to learn about the speed of the collegiate game. Christina was very determined during her red-shirt season in 2004 and came in with a bang in 2005 by earning all-tournament in our first tournament and her first taste of competitive volleyball. She has a lot of potential and we look forward to her continued growth the next three years."

Seaton rounds out the Arkansas outside hitters. The Fort Smith, Ark., native is really the dark horse of the bunch and was expected to surprise opponents this year.

2006 Arkansas Volleyball Outlook

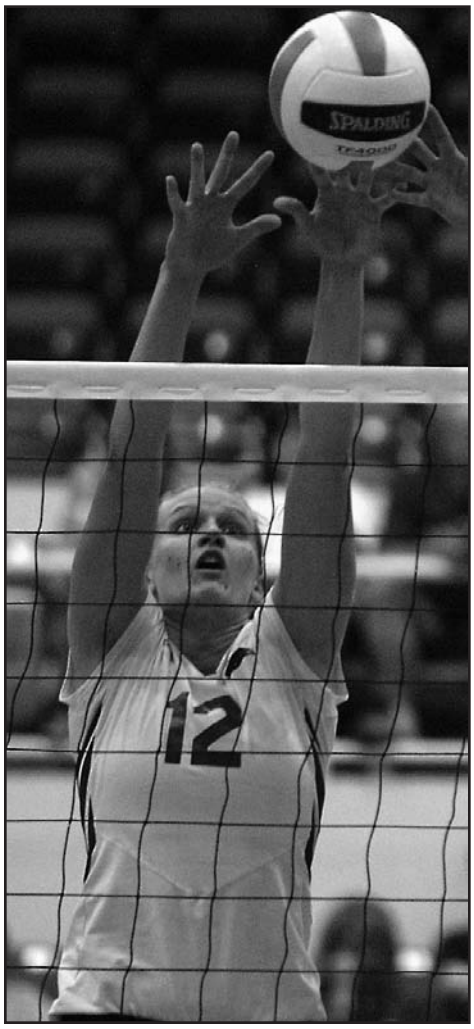

Christina Lawrence

An off-season accident, however, has sidelined the second-year player and she is expected to miss the entire season in 2006.

"We are also hoping for a healthy Kristin Seaton this season," Poole said. "Kristin is one of the best athletes to ever play in our program. Unfortunately, she spent all last fall with a broken bone in her foot and it limited her greatly. After surgery over Christmas holidays, Kristin came back this spring working to recover and get herself in top college shape. We are hoping that we will be able to push her this fall and help her to reach her potential.

MIDDLE BLOCKERS

Arkansas' roster has three middles listed in senior Allison, redshirt freshman Destiny Clark and true freshman Catherine Fowler. Last year, Allison teamed with then-senior Karla Crose to handle much of the middle duties but this season, Allison will carry a heavier load and also guide the newcomers in this important position.

Amy Allison

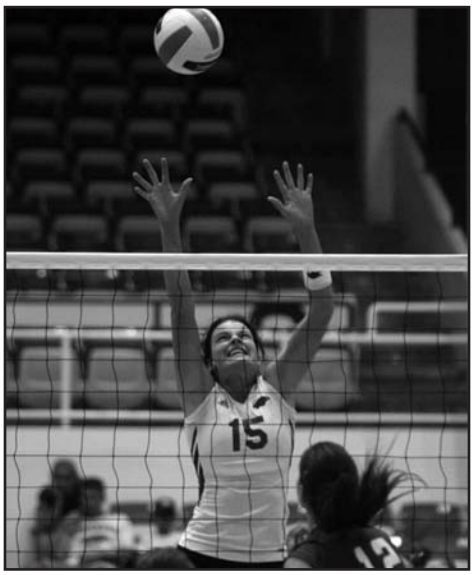

Allison's first two seasons with the Lady'Backs saw the Oklahoma native serve as a role player but her duties were expanded last year and Allison responded to the challenge.

"Amy is our only returning all-conference player from last season and really showed her improvement over her freshman and sophomore season," said Poole. "She was determined to step up big and it made a difference in our season and we will again court heavily on Amy's experience both on and off the court. Amy has very high expectations for herself this season and has dedicated this summer to being in the best shape of her life. She'll have to be a go-to player for us this season and will draw the assignment of trying to stop the top middle from each opponent.

Clark checks into the Arkansas lineup as a redshirt freshman. The gifted Kansas native was Poole's diamond-in-the-rough last year and a season's worth of training combined with spring playing opportunities have polished her playing skills.

Fowler was so excited about becoming a Lady Razorback that she graduated high school a semester early and joined the team in January. She has a jump start on other freshman having played all spring with the team.

"While Amy's experience gives her a head start, we are excited about the potential of our two other middles," continued Poole. "Destiny and Catherine are two of the most athletic middles in the country. Both these ladies jump over 10 feet and have a tremendous future. Although both are only a freshman in eligibility, we expect them to push for a starting position. The quicker they can continue to adapt to the speed of the game, the more playing time they will see on the court. All three of these young ladies have a chance to contribute this season and we look forward to the competition in pre-season for the two middle blocker positions."

Kristin Seaton

The Hog and cheerleaders cheer on the Lady'Backs.

LIBEROS

The position of libero is still relatively new to the collegiate game and fans often wonder about the player in the opposite colored jersey. But the libero has significantly changed the game and Ashley Miller has forever changed the make up of the Lady Razorbacks.

In two seasons, Miller has rewritten Arkansas' dig records. She holds the top spot for digs in a match with 32 breaking one of the program's oldest records last year. In addition, Miller holds the top seven spots for digs in a five game match, the top two places for single season digs and ranks fifth with 1,058 career digs in just two seasons.

"Ashley is on her way to breaking most every digging stat that we have," said Poole. "She is the most experienced defensive player we have had in the program and her presence on the court is recognized by every team we play. Ashley is the heart of the team and a lot of our emotion and aggressiveness starts with how she plays the game."

Kelli Cole

Miller is not alone in her defensive prowess or her ability to spark the team. She is joined by junior Kelli Cole, an Arkansas native and true Lady Razorback.

Cole, more of a role player for the Lady'Backs in her first two seasons, is known for her ability to fire up the team whether she's on the court or on the sideline. She's willing to sacrifice her body and layout for a ball and always brings a lift to the team.

"Kelli has made incredible improvement over the last two years and we are very confident in her being out on the court," said Poole. "How much time we can play the extra defensive specialist will depend greatly on the decision we make with a 5-1 or 6-2 offense. Both these young ladies respect each other and work hard together in every drill. It is nice to see the healthy competition they bring to the court every day."

THE SCHEDULE

As the team returns to campus in early August some changes await them. The 2006 season will feature a home-and-away series between conference opponents and see the elimination of the Southeastern Conference Tournament for the first time since Arkansas added volleyball in 1994.

This year, the Lady Razorbacks face nine NCAA Tournament teams highlighted by SEC foe Tennessee who reached the semifinals before elimination by the eventual national champion.

Also on tap are two contests with Florida, a perennial powerhouse in volleyball. The Lady'Backs also face NCAA teams North Carolina, Sacramento State, Kansas, BYU, Kentucky, LSU and Alabama this year.

Arkansas again hosts a tournament in Barnhill Arena welcoming Sacramento State, Stephen F. Austin and Southeast Missouri State to the friendly confines. The 2006 marks the 12th time in 13 seasons the Lady'Backs have had a home tournament.

"I am excited about this season, even with the question mark of the setter position," concluded Poole. "We have depth in every position and a mixture of experience and athletic youth. Our schedule will be very tough, but we wanted to challenge our team from the beginning. Much of our success early will be determined by the work the girls put in this summer. Two weeks is not enough time to get a team ready for battle, therefore, we are dependent upon the work they have already put in since April. We will have a lot of decisions to make with our line-up in August, but feel good about the potential for more success this fall."

Alma Mater: Arkansas Tech, 1983

Anyone trying to understand the reason behind the University of Arkansas' unprecedented success on the court doesn't have to look any further than head coach Chris Poole.

Since arriving in Fayetteville in 1993, Poole personally handled every element of building the program from buying the first pieces of equipment, hiring the assistants and recruiting the players to renovating the court and building locker room facilities. The results are nothing short of phenomenal.

Since the first season Arkansas fielded a volleyball team in 1994, Poole has led the Lady Razorbacks to 11 Southeastern Conference Western Division titles. Add to that 10 postseason appearances - two NIVC and eight NCAA - along with the SEC Tournament title and numerous individual player honors.

Poole grew up in Heber Springs in north central Arkansas where he dreamed of one day becoming a coach at the University. Having faithfully watched Arkansas athletics his entire life, he understood the dedication to excellence and the commitment to quality the University demanded and he was a perfect match for the program's philosophy.

Poole dreamed of building a nationally recognized program from the beginning. People warned him that it would take years for Arkansas to become competitive in the SEC, not to mention on the national scene. Poole didn't seem to hear them.

Chris Poole instructs in the team huddle.

Along the way, he made Arkansas, both its players and fans, believe in his dream.

He has produced two AVCA all-Americans, two AVCA honorable mention all-Americans, 22 players with 43 all-SEC honors, three SEC Freshmen of the Year and 22 AVCA all-district honorees.

In addition, Poole's teams get it done in the classroom as well with 58 SEC Academic Honor Roll selections, eight CoSIDA all-district, two H. Boyd McWhorter Scholar-Athlete finalists and one McWhorter winner.

In their most recent season, Poole guided a young team to a 21-12 record and an 11-5 mark in SEC play. The Lady Razorbacks won a share of their 11th SEC Western Division title in 12 seasons and reached the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Junior Amy Allison and redshirt freshman Christina Lawrence earned all-conference honors and Allison was selected to the conference all-tournament team.

Allison also emerged as the top blocker in the conference and finished the year ranked second in the nation in blocking with 1.83 bpg.

Are the Lady Razorbacks really dominant in the SEC West?

You bet.

Here's a quick look at what Poole's done in the conference. Since adding volleyball in 1994, Poole skippered Arkansas to a 288-129 overall record and a 144-40 record in the SEC regular season for a 78% league winning mark.

Poole and the Lady Razorbacks are even more impressive against the Western Division winning 11 of 12 titles. Arkansas is 109-8 versus the West during the regular season with a 93 percent winning percentage. Add to that seven perfect seasons against the West in 12 years and a perfect 8-0 record against Western Division teams in the SEC Tournament and it's easy to see why Arkansas is respected in the league and in the country.

How it all began.

The 1994 season saw Poole, who had spent an entire year away from competition while building his program, chomping at the bit to get on the court. His players, a small group of only seven that included five freshmen, a sophomore and junior, struggled to a 6-7 record before beginning SEC play.

But Poole believed in the dream and he made it come true by leading Arkansas to a 19-17 overall record, a 10-5 SEC mark and a SEC Western Division title with a perfect 10-0 divisional record in the first year of competition. The Lady Razorbacks finished third overall in the league behind nationally ranked Florida and Georgia that year and played well enough to earn a postseason bid to the National Invitational Volleyball Coaches tournament in Kansas City where they finished seventh in a field of 20 teams.

The team's accomplishments drew notice from the SEC as Poole was selected the 1994 SEC Coach of the Year, two players (Krystal Osborne and Jaimie Torromeo) earned all-SEC honors, and one player (Osborne) earned all-district honors.

Not a bad way to start.

It began an Arkansas tradition as the power of the SEC West with a near-perfect record against divisional opponents (76-6).

The second year of volleyball saw continued growth. Fan support increased as the crowds began to understand the game and believe in Poole and his players. Defending their Western Division title, Arkansas defeated LSU twice in three days to secure the divisional title and go into the SEC Tournament as the #1 seed. In addition, Arkansas again went undefeated against West opponents and picked up its first win against an Eastern foe that year.

Arkansas fared better in the SEC Tournament advancing to the championship match where they were eliminated by the #4 Florida Gators and went on to their second consecutive NIVC Tournament. Poole took the program another step further as the Lady Razorbacks received their first-ever recognition in the USA TODAY/AVCA Top 25 Coaches poll.

After sharing the Western Division crown with Auburn in 1996, Poole took Arkansas to the next level, reaching the 48-team NCAA Tournament. The Lady Razorbacks, who won their first-round match, were excited about making the field of 48 as the NCAA expanded the tournament to include 56 teams in the 1997 tournament.

The 1997 season brought another feather for the Arkansas cap as the Lady Razorbacks upset fourth-ranked Florida to win their first SEC Tournament title. The Lady Razorbacks advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament and reached their highest ranking to date of 17th. In addition, Jessica Field was named AVCA All-American and Yarleen Santiago was named National Freshman of the Year. Poole earned District IV Coach of the Year, and Field (USA) and Santiago (Puerto Rico) went on to work out with national teams that summer.

Poole followed up by hosting the SEC Tournament in 1998 where the Lady'Backs finished second. The Lady Razorbacks went on to their best finish in the NCAA Tournament, hosting and winning the first two rounds before reaching the East Regional in Gainesville, Fla., where they lost to Hawai'i. Poole had his second all-American in Kim Storey that year.

The 1999 season was a question mark for the Lady Razorbacks. Gone were most of their big guns and left in their place were several talented but young players. Newcomers Libby Windell and Eftila Tanellari stepped up to team with veterans Santiago, Ning Zhao and Sandy Martin to give Arkansas its sixth divisional title and helped the team to again reach the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Poole and the Lady Razorbacks had their most frustrating season in 2000. An up-and-down year saw Arkansas rebuild a young team but still capture several honors and awards. Included in the 2000 highlights were three all-conference players and two all-district selections.

The next four seasons saw Arkansas continue to improve will returning to the NCAA Tournament. Tougher non-conference opponents and an expanded travel schedule have helped the Lady'Backs gain regional and national recognition.

Prior To Arkansas

Poole's ability to build was proven first with Arkansas Tech then at Arkansas State. He took over days prior to the 1987 season at ASU, and his first team showed the effects with a dismal 8-24 record. But with one season under Poole's careful tutelage, virtually the same team was 41-1 the next year, launching a five-year run of winning seasons for the Lady Indians.

His 1988 team had a 33-match win streak, longest in the nation, and posted a school-record 41-1 overall mark. The next year, ASU had a 34-match win streak, notched the Lady Indian record with 43 wins (43-6 overall) and was ranked ninth in the South Region.

In his last season at ASU, the Lady Indians were 41-6 and received an automatic bid into the NCAA tournament in 1992. ASU entered the 32-team NCAA field with the most wins of any team, but lost a tough four-game match to the Northwest Region's top-seeded team, Long Beach State.

Prior to ASU, Poole was an assistant and later head coach at Arkansas Tech. In two seasons as head coach at ATU, he posted a 53-20 record, winning the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference title in 1985 as co-head coach and finishing runner-up as head coach in 1986. He started his collegiate career in 1983-84 as a graduate assistant for the nationally ranked Arkansas Tech Golden Suns. Tech was 58-9 and a perfect 24-0 conference mark in two seasons with Poole as an assistant coach.

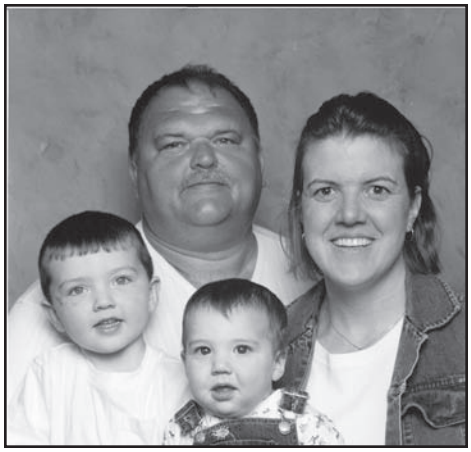

A 1983 graduate of Arkansas Tech, Poole and his wife, Toni, a former Arkansas State track and field standout, have two children, son Joshua and daughter Taylor.

Arkansas Review 2005

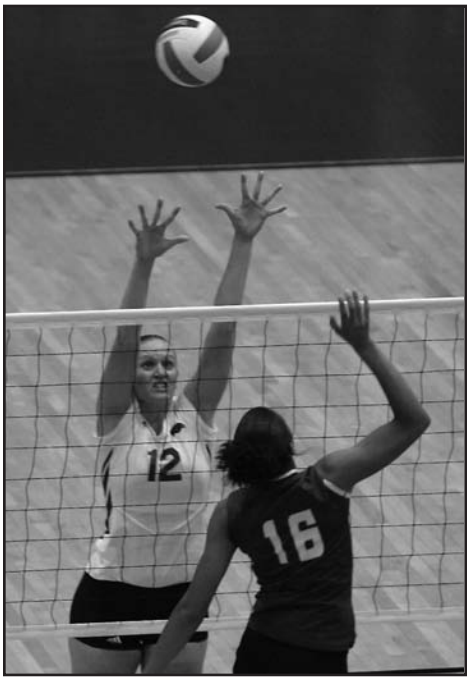

Lady'Backs Improve As Season Progresses

The University of Arkansas volleyball team continued its tradition of success in 2005 by winning a share of its 11th Southeastern Conference Western Division title and reaching the NCAA Tournament for the eighth time its 12-year history.

The season saw the emergence of junior Amy Allison and redshirt freshman Christina Lawrence as both established themselves in the SEC and in the nation to lead Arkansas to a 21-12 overall and 11-5 record in the league.

The year began with three consecutive wins as the Lady'Backs captured the Arkansas Invitational title. Allison earned MVP honors with teammates Karla Crose, Denitza Koleva and Lawrence also selected to the all-tournament team. Lawrence earned the inaugural SEC Freshman of the Week honor the following Monday.

The schedule toughened up with Kansas State and Utah State at the C&C Services Invitational with Arkansas going 1-1 for the weekend. The Lady'Backs fell to Kansas State, but rallied in five games downing USU.

Amy Allison blocks against LSU.

The 2005 Lady Razorbacks score against Auburn.

Koleva earned her second all-tournament team selection along with sophomore Jessica Dorrell who earned her first career honor.

Arkansas hit the road for the first away matches of the 2005 season at the Results Advertising Invitational in Springfield, Mo. The Lady'Backs opened with a heart-breaking four-game loss to the host, but stepped up with a pair of wins the following day.

Trailing 0-2 against Utah, Arkansas rallied to win the next three in a hard-fought battle and defeated Iowa State in the final match.

Dorrell was again an all-tournament team selection and libero Ashley Miller set the school record for digs in a match with 32 in the five-game win over the Utes.

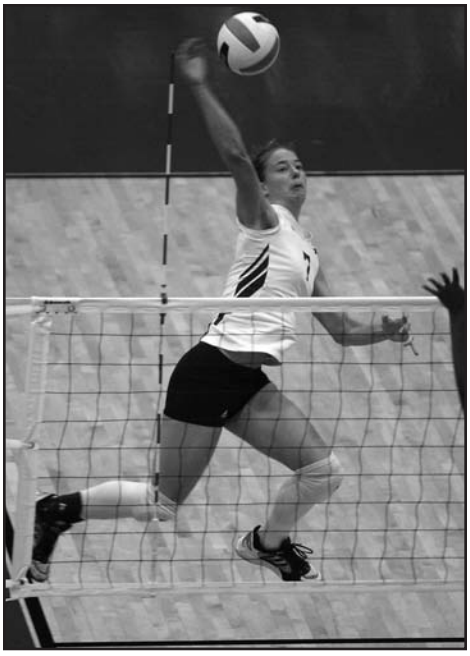

The Lady'Backs took their 6-2 record on the road to San Diego for tournament play. Arkansas opened with a win over UNLV, but dropped the next two matches to No. 18 San Diego and No. 25 Long Beach State. Miller was named to the all-tournament team.

Arkansas returned home to Barnhill to begin SEC play with a new twist on the season. The Lady'Backs would host not only their conference opponent, but would also serve as the home site for LSU and their opponent after hurricanes forced the Tigers to relocate.

NCAA semifinal participant Tennessee handed Arkansas its first SEC loss, but the Lady'Backs rebounded with a win over South Carolina to even their record.

The 2005 Lady Razorbacks line up for the National A

Christina Lawrence gets some air.

It was on to the Western Division with trips to Auburn and Alabama, both wins for Arkansas. The Lady'Backs got a 3-1 win over the Tigers and a 3-2 win at Alabama to move into the top spot in the division after the weekend.

Allison posted a career-best 13 blocks in the win against the Crimson Tide and was named SEC Defensive Player of the Week for her efforts.

The Lady'Backs hit a snag mid-season. Falling in four at Kentucky and losing in five at home against St. Louis, Arkansas rebounded with wins over Mississippi and Mississippi State in Barnhill Arena to remain near the top of the SEC Western Division race.

Anthem.

A tough loss at fourth-ranked Florida was followed by a six-match win streak with victories at Georgia, against Alabama, Auburn and Oral Roberts at home and at Mississippi State and Mississippi.

The Georgia victory featured an Arkansas block party with the Lady'Backs posting 23 team blocks - one shy of the school record.

Allison earned her second SEC honor Oct. 19, while Lawrence was honored the following week. Crose earned league defensive player of the week honors following the trip to the Magnolia State as Arkansas held on to sole possession of the SEC Western Division lead.

Needing to win just one of their final two matches, Arkansas' offense stalled and couldn't come up with the W. The Lady'Backs fell at LSU and to Kentucky at home. The Tigers, who played an abbreviated schedule in Baton Rouge, were undefeated on their home court, not losing a single game all season. The losses dropped the Lady'Backs into a tie with LSU as the teams shared the division title.

Arkansas entered the SEC Tournament as the fourth seed overall behind Florida, Tennessee and LSU. The Lady'Backs defeated Kentucky in the first round and faced the fourth-ranked Gators on day two.

Undaunted by the previous loss to Florida during the regular season, Arkansas pushed Florida to five games before falling, 13-15, in the final frame. The near-miss earned the Lady'Backs even more respect on the national scene and helped propel Arkansas into the NCAA Tournament.

Allison earned SEC second-team honors and was named to the all-tournament team while Lawrence was selected to the league's all-freshman team. Allison was also named to the SEC Good Works team for her contributions to the Northwest Arkansas community off the court.

The Lady'Backs anxiously awaited their name during the selection show and were rewarded with a trip to Columbia, Mo., to face St. Mary's (Calif.) in the first round. The SEC sent an all-time best six teams into the NCAA Tournament demonstrating the strength and improvement of the league's members in recent seasons.

Arkansas opened the NCAA Tournament with St. Mary's - a team that mirrored the Lady'Backs in many ways. Both squads were heralded as good blocking teams, but Arkansas out-blocked the number two blocking team in the nation 14.0-5.0 winning the match in three games.

The Lady'Backs ended their season with a three-game loss to 10th-ranked Missouri on the Tigers' home court.

Allison continued to earn recognition with a selection to the AVCA All-Region team as an honorable mention pick. She and Koleva also earned ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District honors as the season closed.

The Southeastern Conference

When Arkansas added volleyball for the 1994 season, there was an immediate impact on the Southeastern Conference.

The addition of a team changed the regular season format dividing the league into Eastern and Western Divisions and the SEC Tournament featured all 11 teams with byes in the first round for the top four programs.

The league and its members have continued to evolve over the last decade as the SEC marked the 16th conseucitve season with two or more teams in the NCAA Tournament. In fact, the SEC had six league members earn a trip to the NCAA Tournament.

Tennessee, making the program's eighth NCAA appearance, headlined the field reaching the semifinals before falling to eventual national champion Washington in the program's best season.

Pernenial powerhouse Florida capped off another outstanding year reaching the Elite Eight and Arkansas advanced into the second round. Alabama, Kentucky and LSU were all eliminated in the first round with the Crimson Tide celebrating the program's first invitation to the National Tournament.

In addition to the success on the national level, nine of the 11 member teams posted double-digit wins with five teams recording 20= wins. The Gators paced the SEC with 33 victorys followed by Tennessee with 25, Alabama with 23 and LSU and Arkansas with 21 wins each.

The 2006 season sees a change in the regular season format with the elemination of the conference touranment and the addition of a home-and-away match between every team. Teams have been playing a steadily expanding conference schedule in preparation for this year's change. There will be 20 SEC matches for each team up from 16 in 2004.

The SEC also celebrates 27 years of volleyball in 2006. The inagural year of volleyball in 1982 saw six teams fight for the title and won by Tennessee with a 31-7 record and an .816 winning percentage.

Also in the league for the first year were Georgia (41-12), Mississippi (25-13), LSU (44-25), Kentucky (21-14) and Mississippi State (7-33).

Florida joined the SEC volleyball family in 1984, followed by Auburn in 1986, Alabama in 1989, South Carolina in 1991, and finally Arkansas in 1994.

The Gators have dominated the SEC Tournament winning 12 of the 25 titles. Kentucky has captured five crowds followed by four each for LSU and Tennessee. Arkansas and Georgia have each won the SEC Championship once.

NCAA Postseason

"We're in!! We're in!!" was the cry in 1996 when a three-year-old Arkansas volleyball team made its first appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

The young program was honored to have been selected to the field of 48 teams and was surprised to learn that they would host the first round due to a scheduling conflict for their opponent.

Rhode Island made the trip to Fayetteville and battled Arkansas valiantly before falling in five, 15-12, 15-8, 12-15, 9-15, 15-11.

The victory sent Arkansas to Lincoln, Neb., where they faced defending national champion Nebraska in a four-game thriller. Arkansas lost the match, 15-8, 12-15, 15-7, 15-7, but not before they won the hearts of the volleyball-savvy Cornhusker fans, players and coaching staff.

The field expanded and Arkansas was again selected for the NCAA Tournament. But this time it was no surprise. The Lady Razorbacks had done the impossible, knocking off #4 Florida in the Southeastern Conference Tournament finals, 15-7, 15-7, 17-15, in Athens, Ga., to receive the automatic bid.

Again selected to host, Arkansas hardly broke a sweat downing in-state rival Arkansas-Little Rock in straight sets, 15-11, 15-3, 15-3, advancing to the second round.

Notre Dame came to Fayetteville with upset on their minds and did just that, eliminating the Lady Razorbacks in front of the home crowd in four games, 15-9, 7-15, 10-15, 14-16.

Arkansas received its third consecutive invitation to the NCAA Tournament in 1998 and took its game to a new level.

The Lady Razorbacks were again selected to host first- and second-round matches, and with the bitter taste of the 1997 second-round match against Notre Dame still fresh in their mouths, Arkansas rose to the challenge.

The Lady'Backs opened with a first-round win over New Hampshire, winning 15-3, 15-0, 15-13 in Barnhill Arena.

The second round saw the Lady Razorbacks crush Indiana, 15-8, 15-5, 15-4, sending them to Gainesville, Fla., where Arkansas faced a tough postseason team in Hawai'i.

The Rainbow Wahine handed Arkansas a 3-0 loss but not before senior Kim Storey made a name for herself, earning East Regional All-Tournament Team honors and becoming the second AVCA All-American in Arkansas history.

Selected to the field of 64 in 1999, Arkansas faced their first-round match on the road for the first time in school history. The Lady

NCAA Postseason

Razorbacks found themselves in Long Beach, Calif., where they opened with a first-round win over Georgetown, 15-3, 10-15, 15-1, 15-6.

They had the unenviable task of facing the defending national champion in the second round for the second time in four trips, falling to host Long Beach State, 6-15, 6-15, 11-15, to be eliminated.

The 2001 season marked a return to NCAA postseason play for a young Lady Razorback team. Arkansas struggled in the opening two weeks of the season with a particularly bad showing against Kansas State in the Wildcat Classic. The volleyball gods gave Arkansas a chance to redeem themselves sending the Lady Razorbacks back to Manhattan for a first-round match-up with Kansas State.

Arkansas lost the match but not before gaining a new sense of respect from Kansas State and its fans as the Lady'Backs pushed the host to five games, narrowly missing the game-five victory.

It was back to the Dance for the Lady Razorbacks in 2003 again traveling to Manhattan, Kan., for first- and second-round action. Arkansas avenged an early-season loss against No. 23 Southwest Missouri,downing the Bears in four games, but fell to the host and No. 6 Wildcats in three games. Arkansas hit .232 behind 11 kills each from freshmen Denitza Koleva and Kele Brewer. The Lady'Backs added 11 team blocks in the loss.

2004

Selection to the 2004 NCAA Tournament may be one of the more rewarding bids in Arkansas history. The Lady Razorbacks faced one of the nation's toughest schedules and the team's win-loss record reflected the challenges. But head coach Chris Poole's gamble paid off as the team was selected to the field of 64 making their seventh appearance in the Big Dance.

Arkansas traveled to Columbia, Mo., facing 16th-ranked Missouri on the Tigers' home court in the first round. The Lady'Backs fell in four, 28-30, 21-30, 30-25, 26-30, in a hard-fought battle that saw sophomore Kele Brewer tally a team-leading 17 kills and score 19 points for Arkansas. Freshman Ashley Miller added 24 digs in the first-round set back.

Arkansas made its third consecutive post-season appearance last year again traveling to Columbia, Mo., in December. Arkansas' invitation was one of six extended to the Southeastern Conference, the most ever for the league. Also making NCAA Tournament appearances were Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, LSU and Tennessee. The Lady Vols advanced to the semifinals before being eliminated.

The Lady Razorbacks opened their tournament with St. Mary's of California in a match that was nearly even on paper. Both teams were know as solid blocking programs and both had similiar offensive numbers but it was Arkansas who emerged at the end of the night. The Lady Razorbacks dominated the contest out-hitting St. Mary's .358 to .111 and out-blocking the Gaels 14.0-5.0 in the three-game win.

Senior Karla Crose hit a match-best .857 with six kills, no errors and seven attempts. She also lead the match with 10 block assists in the win.

Junior Amy Allison added a 7-for-13 performance hitting .538 while junior Denitza Koleva lead Arkansas with 11 kills.

The victory moved Arkansas into the second round where they faced host and 10th-ranked Missouri on the Tigers home court.

Missouri got the best of Arkansas for the second consecutive season ending the careers of seniors Crose and Iva Docekalova. Kele Brewer paced Arkansas with 10 kills in the loss.

THE SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE

Year after year, the Southeastern Conference shows why it is considered to be one of the premier volleyball conferences in the nation.

In the last two decades, the SEC has made stellar contributions in volleyball. The conference has sent at least two SEC teams to the NCAA Tournament in every season the last 17 years.

The SEC had a team reach the Final Four seven of the 10 seasons in the '90s with the league having a team advance to the regional final nine of those 10 seasons. Since 2000, the SEC has had a team reach the Final Four three times and regional final four times.

In 2006, Florida captured its 16th ever SEC Championship and made its 17th NCAA Tournament appearance and advanced to the regional semi-finals. In all, seven teams from the SEC made the NCAA Tournament, including Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, LSU, Ole Miss and Tennessee.

Since the inaugural SEC volleyball championship in 1979-80, many changes have occurred in the conference with volleyball. The addition of Arkansas and South Carolina to the league in 1991 brought the divisional format to the sport with five teams competing in the Eastern Division and six teams in the Western Division.

Along with the popularity growth throughout the country, women's volleyball has also grown in the SEC. A benchmark in that growth came in 1995 when SEC volleyball was first broadcast on SEC-TV on a tape-delay basis. For the past eight seasons the coverage of live telecasts has grown, especially in the last five years. SEC volleyball will continue to enjoy the live coverage on SEC-TV to almost 22 million subscribers in the conference's nine-state region.

Barnhill Arena

Is it the fans? Is it the facility? Is it the band and cheerleaders?

It's all of those elements that make Barnhill Arena, the home of the Lady Razorbacks, one of the toughest volleyball venues in the country.

Renovated several times, Barnhill Arena officially closed its doors as one of the most feared basketball facilities in the country March 3, 1993. It was re-configured into the largest volleyball-only arena in time for the inaugural season in 1994.

The Barn underwent a second significant face lift prior to the 2002 season to welcome gymnastics.

Barnhill Arena was authorized in 1953 as the University's new multipurpose arena. Named for athletic director John Barnhill, the Fieldhouse, as it was originally known, underwent a drastic renovation in 1976-78. The renovation created the seating arrangement that turned the facility into a basketball-only configuration.

March 3, 1993, closed Barnhill's career as a basketball facility with a gala party, complete with a coast-to-coast broadcast of the Arkansas-LSU men's game on ESPN and closing ceremonies carried live statewide.

As the home of Lady'Back volleyball, Barnhill underwent renovation of its playing surface to convert the then 19-year-old hardwood floor to a volleyball configuration. It was unveiled to the public during Arkansas' summer camps, including the first-ever volleyball camp at the Fayetteville campus in 1994. In addition to the on-the-court renovation, the Lady Razorback volleyball program was provided with a state-of-the-art locker room. The locker room features a lounge area, team room with a large-screen television and VCR for viewing film and a changing room with lockers and showers.

Barnhill again underwent changes in the summer of 2002. The volleyball-only facility welcomed the addition of gymnastics for the 2003 season and the facility was given a face-lift to remain one of the best in the country. Changes included new paint on the court, expanding the borders to 10 feet, and refinishing and lightening the surrounding wood surfaces.

New lights, including specialized "show lights" with shutters that allow for instant "on-off" capabilities, and new seating were some of the other changes.

Barnhill Arena also serves as office space for the Lady Razorbacks. Several coaches' offices, most of the teams' locker rooms and the training and equipment rooms are located here.

Barnhill Arena Volleyball Locker Room

The locker room features a replica of the Barnhill Arena volleyball court in the lounge area.

The volleyball team enjoys a large, comfortable locker room with a separate dressing area and lounge.
